

IN-BETWEEN LIVES

PAST LIFE REGRESSION

Reincarnating In-Between Lives

All religions talk about reincarnation, even the Christian Church back in 440 AD accepted reincarnation before Constantine excluded it from the New Testament. Then what is the purpose of reincarnating? You live only one life; the life of the soul, your physical life is merely a partial reflection of your soul. You select the time, place, and parents that will allow learning the lessons that you have contracted to experience. Each physical lifetime allows you that opportunity to experience and gain the wisdom of each lesson, allowing a small conscious portion of your soul. Obviously it takes many physical lifetimes for the soul to become a fully conscious portion of the God force. This suggests that your real life is in reality that portion of the soul living in-between your physical reflections.

Purpose Going IN-Between

If you accept that we live only one life of the soul, then what is the purpose of reincarnation? Most religions state that “your soul is made in the image and likeness of God”. You surely agree that there are other beings on other planets that don’t look like humans. Thus, that which we call God does not look like humans but rather is the force within that is referred to as the soul. For the soul to become conscious of itself, you must experience and apply your physical knowledge in order to gain the wisdom of those lessons. If you are made in the image and likeness, then you have all the knowledge of God, you’re just not conscious of it. Even those that do evil deeds are souls of the God force, they are just not conscious of their God within. Then how do we become the God Self? You need to experience that portion of the God self that is still unconscious. The occupation that you have reflects the unconscious knowledge directly or indirectly as you live your everyday life, which in turn reflects your spiritual pathway. Living and experiencing the knowledge in the 3rd dimensional world allows you to realize the wisdom of that knowledge. It is the wisdom experienced and not just the knowledge learned that allows you to become conscious of your God self.

Language of the Soul

Life in-between life doesn’t need a verbal language; it uses a form of telepathy. This form of language is being experienced in the physical world for those who are now living within the perception of the 4th dimension. In the physical world, this language is the feeling from the heart/soul and not the brain/ego. As you raise your consciousness, you will begin to experience those feelings from your heart, your soul. You then begin realizing that your heart feelings are not feelings but rather they are the words of your soul. As you start putting words to those heart feelings and begin translating them, your vocabulary changes talking with the words of your soul and not the ego. This is the next level of communication as it is now appearing in this Aquarian Age.

Contracted Lessons Between Lives

Many people have experienced past lives bringing back wisdom and resolving current issues. What about finding out the lessons that you have decided to experience before beginning each life? In-between lives are just a different level of consciousness moving between the physical and higher dimensions. It is here that you have the opportunity to examine what you have just experienced and what you have decided will be the lessons within your next incarnation.

How to Enter Between Lives

As you enter one of your past lives and experience your death cycle, you continue on in-between lifetimes. As your energy rises from the physical, the darkness opens and you begin to feel and see a continual light becoming brighter. You feel the sensation of floating upwards until the light becomes too intense. At this level of intensity, you enter a room that is full of light where you contemplate on what you have experienced in your recent life. From this point, you continue moving upward until you are unable to handle the light. Your movement then slides horizontal to the level of your experienced wisdom where others of like wisdom are gathered. This place is of the purest love and beauty where most would really rather stay and not reincarnate.

Contracts With Other Soul Mates

Before returning, you decide what lessons are needed in order for you to gain more wisdom of your soul’s knowledge. In-between lives, you map out and live your next physical life in a higher dimension. As you start your descent into the physical world, your mapped out life becomes your unconscious destiny. Here you experience a sort of amnesia and your destiny becomes innate as you begin living your free will with the energy of your ego. As you master lessons of the ego, those parts become the wisdom, the conscious part of your soul. When you have finished all your incarnated lessons, you are then allowed off the wheel of rebirth, entering and living in the 4th and 5th dimension of life.
